As one of the world centers of medical device industry, Minnesota is home for Fortune 500 companies such as Medtronic, Boston Scientific and St. Jude Medical, as well as hundreds of other small to midsize companies. The medical device industry is an integral part of Minnesota economy. Many Chinese professionals, including some of CAISS-MN members, are working in the medical device companies. The cutting edge technology and global competition have brought tremendous opportunities and unprecedented challenge to the industry. How to face the challenges and to seize the opportunities is on many Chinese professionals' mind.

Three Minnesota Chinese organizations, CAISS-MN, TAA-MN and PKUAA-MN, will co-host a panel discussion on the current development and opportunities in U.S. and China medical device industry. We invited four fellow Chinese, Dr. Hui Hu, Dr. Weili Lin, Dr. Lixiao Wang and Ms. Sophia Wang to discuss current and future trend of medical device industry in U.S. and China. Besides rich research and management experience in U.S. medical device industry, the four guest speakers also have successful entrepreneurial experience in China and U.S., and will offer some great insight about the industry.
